

The Red Fox Diner serves up food and thanks

The Petrone family, owners of the Red Fox Diner in Lighthouse Point, held their Second Annual Thanksgiving Dinner. Invitations were extended to folks in the community that were without their family to come to the Red Fox for a complimentary, traditional Thanksgiving dinner with all the fixings! Last year I had a nice chat with Rose Manni, Julie Leclair, Catherine Kalin and Marilyn Jordan and was happy to see them again this year enjoying this special treat. I spoke with Arthur Reilly who said that this Thanksgiving Day, November 22, would have been his 62nd wedding anniversary. His wife passed away two years ago, but he was happy to share with me his special thoughts of his very gratifying life with her. Along with the guests, it was heartwarming to see the staff of the Red Fox show up on their day off to cook and serve folks. A wonderful tradition and hopefully next year even more of our residents will be on hand for this treat!

Nick Diorescenzo, Arthur Reilly, and Lee Salm with their Thanksgiving feast at the Red Fox Restaurant.

Owners and staff of the Red Fox Restaurant in Lighthouse Point as they serve their holiday dinner.